Disclaimer

The Participant understands this is advanced pilot training that may be conducted in hazardous conditions and locations. Throughout the program, participants will fly their own airplane and will always be considered pilot-in-command. Participants may terminate a flight at any time and either party may terminate the flight at any time during dual training. Participants will have sole authority and responsibility for all maneuvers, procedures, decisions, and safety while operating their aircraft including during dual flight. It is the responsibility of participants to decide whether it is safe, and legal, to act on any information, suggestions, or methods presented. Information and training provided in this program is no substitute for experience, proficiency, good judgement, informed decision-making, and additional training from a qualified experienced professional.

The instructor is not a certified flight instructor by the FAA (CFI) and will not provide logbook endorsements. Dual flight training received will not be officially recognized by the FAA and cannot be applied toward the requirements of an FAA certificate or rating.

Participants agree to indemnify, defend, and hold harmless Wayne Mushrush, Vanessa Bauman, Snowking Aviation and its owner(s), advertisers, employees, volunteers, partners, family members, representatives, agents, associates, and employees and that we shall not be liable for loss, damage, expense, or cost of any nature which may arise from your bush training participation or your use or inability to use the information, printed materials, website content, media, suggestions, and methods presented, or from any action you take as either a direct or indirect result of information, methods, opinions, or other materials we may provide.
